Your Worst Enemy Writhing With the rheumatism is an individual if you have a Christian spirit, you would forgive. He is, no matter what his delinquencies, punished enough. Nothing short of Tophet could enhance his misery. short of Tophet could enhance his misery. Moreover, he is in serious peril. The disease is always prone to attack his heart and kill him instanter. As a means of curing this disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has the highest reputation and the most authoritative professional sanotion. Its use in the preliminary stage of the complaint is the wisest precautionary measure rheumatic invalids can possibly adopt. The Bitters is also a remedy of the greatest utility in malarial and kidney trouble, dyspepsia and liver complaint, constipation and nervousness. It counteracts the effects of hardship and exposure in damp or inclement weather, and is a capital promoter of appetite and sleep, Give this fine remedy the persistent trial to which all medicines of standard reputation are entitled.

In the course of his speech his patriotism was bubbling over, and his eloquence was a surprise even to himself, for this was what he said: "The British lion, whether it is reaming to he initials R. F. British lion, whether it is roaming the deserts of Afrea or climbing the forests of America, will not draw in its horns nor retire into its shell."

When one says of anything that it is "not worth a straw" one means to imply that it is worthless. The older saying was 'not worth a rush" and this brings out the origin of the phrase. In the days be-fore carpets it was the custom to strew the floor with rushes. BUT GENERAL TRADE SHOWS SOME FAVORABLE FEATURES.

Cold Weather Hinders Distribution of Goods-Cotton and Woollen Goods Fall to Improve-Increased Bank Clearings Fower Pailures.

New York, Feb. 21.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say:
While no radical improvement has appeared in the general trade situation,
more favorable influences are reported than for som weeks. Among the less satisfactory advices telegraphed Bradstreet's are the check to distribution of general merchandise, due to the extreme cold and continued conservative purchases by interior merchants West and Southwest, owing to large stocks of merchandise having been carried over. The drop in the temperature has affected the movedise having been carried over. The drop in the temperature has affected the movement of dry goods, hats and groceries the most. No improvement is snown in demand for cotten and woollen goods, manufacturers of each continuing to find cause for complaint. No more satisfactory view of teach conditions in this and the precedfor complaint. No more satisfactory view of trade conditions in this and the preceding week is reported than the bank clearings total for six business days ending February 20-$1,093,000,000—an increase of 17 per cent over the total last week, and of 31 per cent over the total for the third week of February, 1895. Hardly less favorable than the improvements in bank clearings is the sudden drop in the total number of business failure throughout the country, that for the week being 276, against 381 last week and 327 in the corresponding week one year ago.

Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States this week amount to 3,149,000 bush els, against 2.718,000 bushels last week 1,808,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 1,730,050 bushels in the week two years ago, 2,560,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1893, and 3,307,000 bushels in the like week of 1892.

BENJ. FRANKLIN'S KITE. With Which the Philosopher First Drew Lightning From the Clouds. (Cassier's Magazine.)

It was a square kite, not the coffin shaped affair shown in story book pictures. To the upright stick of the cross Franklin attached to his pointed rod-a sharp wire, about a foot long-and provided himself with a silk ribbon and a key; the ribbon, to fasten to the string after he had raised the kite as some possible protection the kite, as some possible protection-how much he did not know-against the lightning entered his body; and the key, to be secured to the junction of the ribbon and string to serve as a conductor from which he might draw the sparks of celes-tial fire-if it came. When the thunder storm broke he went out on the open common near Philadelphia and faced death-faced the tremendous power of the lightning stroke, before which all people of all ages have qualled in terror; faced what most of the world then believed to be the avenging blow of an angered God. True, he believed that electricity and lightning were the same thing, and therefore had no different prop-erties of effect, but he did not know it. The best existing theory which account-The best existing theory which account ed for electrical phenomena at that time was his own. The laws of electrical conduction of resistance, now so familiar were not even suspected. Who could predict that the lightning would obey any law? Besides, he had produced tremend-ous shocks with his Leyden jars in series, and had killed birds with them. More than that, he has been terribly shocked himself by the same means—stunned into insensibility and nearly killed.

He had said, again and again, that an electric shock, if strong enough, would blot out life, though without a pang. If his dea was correct, if his conviction was true, he was now about to face an electric discharge beside which that of the most coverful of man-made batteries. tric discharge beside which that of the most powerful of man-made batteries would seem weak and insignificant.

All the world knows what happened. The kite soared up into the black cloud, while the philosopher stood calmiy in the drenching rain watching the string, until finally he saw the little fibres of the hemp
